Matthew's primary real estate focus is in the industrial sector, specializing in sales and leasing. He has been a licensed real estate professional since 2005 and attributes his success to being straightforward and completely transparent with his clients. With industrial real estate as his main focus, Matthew has developed expert marketing knowledge of what is demanded in today's marketplace.

Matthew aligns himself with each client's values, putting himself in their shoes in order to serve them wholeheartedly. His approach to every transaction is to fully understand and assess his client's needs, point of view and pain points, and then provides viable alternatives as well as the tools to make an informed real estate decision.
